A Tribute To Barry Horn

On the weekend of October 24, 2009, the Valley was shocked with the news of the violent death of Barry Horn, a person who had dedicated his life to become one of the most active patrons of the arts and culture in the Rio Grande Valley.

Barry was a strong and loyal supporter of Public Radio 88FM not only with his talent by coming on the air at least once a year since the inception of Public Radio 88FM sixteen years ago to ask for your donations for public radio in the Rio Grande Valley but also with his own donations and outreach on behalf of our public radio station.

May he rest in peace.

Barry, you are greatly missed by all of us at KMBH!

Forty Years Of Sesame Street

On November 10, 1969 a new TV production under the title of Sesame Street premiered on public TV of our country. Based on a combination of Jim Henson's muppets, animation, live shorts and cultural references, Sesame Street began forty years ago what was to gradually be recognized as the most widely viewed children program in the world.

Throughout forty years Sesame Street has undergone numerous changes, without losing its educational nature. It has reached most of the countries in the world with tens of different language versions.

Even if comparisons are usually inappropriate the reference to Sesame Street as being much more consistent on its educational purpose than any other of the worldly famous Disney characters or stories is inevitable. Sesame Street has shaped several generations of children in the US and in the world, propelling children to the heights of knowledge, creativity and passion to learn.

We at KMBH-DT38 are proud of having served the Valley with Sesame Street for twenty six years and we expect to continue to be able to do so for many more years to come, to the joy and development of the children of all of our families.

Congratulations Big Bird, Elmo, Cookie Monster, Oscar the Grouch, Bert and Ernie, etc...

Thank you, the Carnegie Foundation, the Ford Foundation, the taxpayers of our country through the federal grants assigned to Sesame Street by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting... Thank you, in the Rio Grande Valley, all of our underwriters, viewers who donate and support what is the best educational instrument on TV at home, the day care, the school.

Thank you, parents, teachers and everyone else involved in education for appreciating Sesame Street and making of it to most effective complement to the educational development of the small children.

There is always an opportunity for you to renew or to start your membership to public TV and/or public radio in the Rio Grande Valley by calling with your financial support: 800-433-2522, 956-421-4111, or sending your check/money order to KMBH / P O Box 2147 / Harlingen, TX 78551. You can also donate online through our web site: www.kmbh.org

Happy Thanksgiving to you and your family!

Deutsche Welle Festival Concerts

Hosted by Rick Fulker Fridays 1pm-3pm

Live performances from Germany, the superpower of music the stars cannot afford to ignore. Germany's public broadcasters record these events for their listeners, and we share highlights of the season with you. There's the backbone of Deutsche Welle's listings; the Beethoven Festival in the broadcaster's home city of Bonn.

This block of concerts opens with that festival's complete cycle of Beethoven symphonies as performed by the Orchestre National de France and conductor Kurt Masur... And so much more!

The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center's

Tune in Mondays at 11am & 10pm

2009-2010 radio season features 26 one-hour programs drawn from live performances recorded during the Chamber Music Society's 2008-2009 season.

Programs are hosted by Elliott Forrest and include commentary by CMS Co-Artistic Director David Finckel and musicians. The CMS radio series is syndicated by the WFMT Radio Network, and heard on more than sixty commercial and non-commercial stations across the U.S.

THANKS!

Table Manners for Kids

pbsparents.org

Adapted from "The Gift of Good Manners: A Parent's Guide to Raising Respectful, Kind, Considerate Children," by Peggy Post and Cindy Post Senning, Ed.D. (HarperCollins, 2002).

One of the holiday events we all look forward to is that special day when kids, parents, relatives and family friends gather together to share a meal. However, along with the anticipation comes a serving of anxiety: How will the kids behave at the table? Eating can be inherently gross activity. Will they gross others out at the table or embarrass themselves? How can we help them approach the table with self-confidence, so everyone can enjoy the meal to the max?

You might ask, «Why table manners?» The answer is pretty simple. Table manners are tools that can keep eating and mealtimes as pleasant as possible. Also, if you know which one is your glass, you're less likely to drink your neighbor's cider. If you know how to hold your utensils, you're less likely to spill your food in your lap.

The following manners are fundamental to all meals. Share them with your kids and discuss why they're important. Make them an expectation for everyone (yes, you too), and practice them together as a family:

1. Come to the table with clean hands and face. No one wants to look at a dirt-covered face while eating.
2. Put your napkin on your lap. Use it to wipe food off your face or fingers. It will also protect your clothes in case you spill or drop food into your lap.
3. Start eating when everyone else does – or when given the okay to start.
4. Stay seated and sit up straight.
5. Keep elbows (and other body parts!) off the table while eating.
6. Chew with your mouth closed and don't talk until you've swallowed. Have your child take a look in a mirror while eating. Then, the reason for keeping your mouth closed will become obvious.
7. Don't make bad comments about the food. Someone has spent time and effort to make the meal and negative comments can only hurt feelings.
8. Say "Please pass the —" instead of reaching. Saying please changes a demand into a request.
9. Don't make rude noises like burping or slurping. And if a burp slips in by mistake, say "Excuse me."
10. Chat with everyone at the table. You can have that intense one-on-one talk that excludes everyone else later, when you and your friend are on your own.
11. Ask to be excused when finished. You can also offer to help clear the table.
12. Thank your host and whoever prepared the meal.
